Comment

Fund Performance:

AVG was up an estimated +0.66% in July (+0.16% YTD). The top performing strategies were Global Macro discretionary and Emerging Markets. The Multistrategy, systematic Global Macro, Equity Neutral and Convertibles managers were also able to capitalize gains. On the downside, Relative Value was negative, with two of the three funds in this strategy reporting negative returns, hit by market volatility falling to pre-Lehman levels. This also triggered an increase in long vol positions, that have hurt July's performance but that will protect the portfolio in future market corrections. The remaining strategies were practically flat or slightly negative at month end.

At month end we continued to gradually increase our exposure to Emerging Markets Directional and bought a Chinese long-short. Additionally, we increased our investment in a commodities specialized fund. On the sale side, we exited a Systematic fund playing long term trends and an Equity Directional, long-short fund.
